N. A. Kilburn Memorial Concert

Individually they are Douglas Stewart (flute), Lawrence Cherney (oboe), Paul Grice (clarinet), Harcus Hennigar (horn), and Jerry Robinson (bassoon). Collectively they are The York Winds, cited by The Globe and Mail as "the greatest, fully professional, all Canadian woodwind quintet this country has ever produced."

The York Winds will perform on the occasion of the second annual Nicholas Arthur Kilburn Memorial Concert on 8 February at 8 p.m. in Convocation Hall. The concert is free and open to the public but, to ensure against any seating problems in the 450-seat facility, it is necessary to pick up tickets at the Department of Music Office, 3-82 Fine Arts Building.

The quintet's repertoire, from Beethoven and Bach to Scott Joplin and Gershwin, showcases its versatility, and the group has enlarged that repertoire by commissioning leading Canadian composers such as Robert Aikten and Brian Cherney to write especially for them.

The program for the Kilburn Concert is made up of "Quintet in B flat Major, Op. 56, No. 1" by Franz Danzi; "Summer Music, Op. 31" by Samuel Barber; "Suite, Op. 57" by Charles Lefebvre; and "Kvintet, Op. 43" by Carl Nielsen.

The York Winds first performed in 1972. They have been Artistsin-Residence at York University, Hebrew University in Jerusalem, St. Francis Xavier University, and Mount Orford, Quebec. They have toured Europe and the Middle East and their Carnegie Hall debut in 1979 evoked The New York Times comment: "clearly superior instrumentalists who play with precision, smoothlyblended tone, and sensible understanding of stylistic matters."

The Nicholas Arthur Kilburn Memorial Concert is held annually in honor of Mr. Kilburn, a member of the University's Board of Governors during the 1920s. The concerts are funded by a $50,000 endowment given by Peter Kilburn, an alumnus of this University. Pianist Jorge Bolet gave the first Nicholas Arthur Kilburn Memorial Concert last year.

He was awarded a scholarship to Bristol University, and after a year's research there and another year in London, he returned to New Zealand in 1959. In 1965, he revisited London on a Nuffield Travelling Fellowship and took part in poetry readings at the Royal Court theatre during the Commonwealth Arts Festival. His

The New Poetic (1964), a study of the development of modernist poetry during the first quarter of the century, is one of the most valuable books in its field. It orders and clarifies a complex process of change in poetic theory and practice which has influenced nearly all subsequent poetry written in English-speaking countries. He is also a well-known writer of poetry and short stories in his own country, has published a volume of essays on New Zealand literature, and is a student of Australian and Canadian literature.

Dr. Stead has contributed to the Penguin Book of New Zealand Verse and has edited a collection of New Zealand short stories, published in 1966. His poems have appeared in several magazines, including the New Statesman, the London Magazine, and the Critical Quarterly. He is now Professor of English at Auckland University.

In 1968, Professor Skalmowski left his native Poland and taught first at the Institute of Applied Linguistics, University of Leuven, then at Harvard University in the Center for Middle Eastern Studies. He currently holds a professorship in the Departments of Oriental and Slavonic Studies at the University of Leuven.

His works have appeared inter alia in periodicals such as Folia Orientalia, Bulletin de la Société linguistique polonaise, and Orientalia Lovaniensia Periodica. Among Professor Skalmowski's studies are: "The Structure of Classical Persian Poetics," "The Rise of Modern Persian Poetry," and "The Position of Iranian within the Indo-European Family of Languages." His book, Teksty i Preteksty ("Texts and Pretexts"), a collection of essays in Polish, has just been published by Kultura of Paris. Professor Skalmowski's articles, devoted to the study of Polish, Russian and West European literatures, appear regularly in Kultura, a Polish monthly journal for which he writes under the pseudonym of Maciej Bronski.

While at the University, Professor Skalmowski will lecture and conduct seminars on various important Polish authors (W. Gombrowicz, J. Iwaszkiewicz, S. Mrozek, St. I. Witkiewicz); the literature of Poland since World War II; the journal Kultura; Polish literature in exile; typology of sentence structure; ergative constructions in Iranian.

The Department of Slavic and East European Studies has distributed a complete schedule of Professor Skalmowski's presentations as well as flyers for individual topics. It welcomes any inquiries from interested parties at 432-3273.

Part-time Teachers for Computing Services Courses Computing Services offers a noncredit training program on the use of MTS and some MTS programs and packages. The demand for these courses has increased to the point where we are inviting people outside Computing Services to teach some of the courses part-time. The following courses are planned for the 1982-83 term:

1. Introduction to Computing; 2. MTS and Editor Fundamentals; 3. Efficient File Editing; MTS Overview; 5. Introduction to TEXTFORM. If there are enough users interested, other MTS programs or topics can be taught to capitalize on the instructor's special interests.

Anyone with experience as a user of MTS or TEXTFORM is invited to apply. The courses are at the beginner level. What is required is an ability to relate well to new MTS users and to explain in clear and simple fashion the basics of MTS and TEXTFORM.

The courses are to be taught during weekdays, mostly in the 10 a.m. to 12 noon time slot. The class format is a combination of lecture and terminal laboratory practice.

The salary for these teaching positions is $13.10 per hour.

If you are interested, contact Marilyn Francis, Training Coordinator, 432-2261, 319 General Services Biulding
